The Boat

The Blakemores' boat is a 44-foot catamaran named SV Seeker. She is a custom-built boat that was designed for long-term cruising. She has three cabins, two heads, and a large cockpit. She is also equipped with a watermaker, a solar panel system, and a wind generator.

The Itinerary

The Blakemores have sailed all over the world. They have cruised the Caribbean, the Mediterranean, the Pacific Ocean, and the Indian Ocean.

They have visited over 50 countries and have experienced a wide variety of cultures.

Their itinerary is typically flexible and they often change their plans based on the weather and their interests. However, they do have some long-term goals. They would like to sail around the world and they would like to visit all seven continents.

The Challenges

Cruising with a family is not without its challenges. The Blakemores have had to deal with seasickness, storms, and equipment failures. They have also had to adjust to living in a small space and being away from their friends and family.

However, the Blakemores say that the challenges are worth it. They have learned a lot about themselves and about the world. They have also made lifelong memories and have created a strong bond as a family.

The Rewards

Cruising with a family has many rewards. The Blakemores say that they have experienced some of the best moments of their lives while cruising. They have seen amazing places, met interesting people, and had countless adventures.

They have also learned a lot about themselves and about the world. They have learned to be resourceful, adaptable, and resilient. They have also learned to appreciate the simple things in life.

The Future

The Blakemores are still cruising and they have no plans to stop anytime soon. They are looking forward to continuing to explore the world and to making more memories with their family.

They are also excited to share their story with other families who are considering a similar lifestyle. They hope that their blog, The Blakemore Files, will inspire other families to pursue their dreams and to live a life of adventure.
