The Arctic Circle

The Arctic Circle is the northernmost circle of latitude on the Earth. It is located at 66 degrees 33 minutes north of the equator, and it marks the southern boundary of the Arctic region.

The Arctic Circle is a region of extreme cold and darkness. In the winter, the sun does not rise for several weeks at a time, and the temperatures can drop to below -50 degrees Celsius. In the summer, the sun does not set for several weeks at a time, and the temperatures can rise to above 30 degrees Celsius.

The Arctic Circle is home to a variety of wildlife, including polar bears, seals, whales, and walruses. The region is also home to a number of indigenous peoples, including the Inuit, the Sami, and the Nenets.
