The volume begins with Saitama and Garou facing off in a deserted wasteland. Garou has been training for this moment for years, and he is determined to defeat Saitama and prove that he is the strongest martial artist in the world.

Saitama, on the other hand, is his usual laid-back self. He doesn't seem to be too concerned about Garou, and he even yawns during their fight.

Despite Saitama's nonchalance, Garou quickly realizes that he is outmatched. Saitama is simply too powerful, and he is able to defeat Garou with a single punch, just like he has defeated every other opponent he has ever faced.

However, Garou is not one to give up easily. He gets back up and continues to fight, even though he knows that he is no match for Saitama.

Saitama is impressed by Garou's tenacity, and he begins to respect him as an opponent. He even offers to train Garou, so that he can become stronger and one day challenge him again.

Garou accepts Saitama's offer, and the two of them begin to train together. Saitama teaches Garou everything he knows about martial arts, and Garou quickly becomes one of the most powerful fighters in the world.

However, Garou's training also awakens something dark within him. He begins to believe that he is the only one who can defeat evil, and he becomes increasingly violent and ruthless.

Saitama realizes that Garou has become a danger to the world, and he is forced to fight him again. This time, Saitama does not hold back, and he defeats Garou with a single punch.

Garou is defeated, but he is not killed. Saitama spares his life, and he tells him that he can still become a hero if he chooses to.

Garou is left to contemplate his choices, and he eventually decides to become a hero. He joins the Hero Association, and he uses his powers to fight against evil.
